BEEKEEPING 101 WORKSHOP

Led by Regina Blakeslee and Rosemary Lee of the Hudson Valley Natural Beekeepers, this workshop will cover some key aspects of bee biology and behavior and introduce you to 'natural' beekeeping methods. You will learn a brief history of beekeeping, the basic equipment needed, site selection, and where to obtain your first honeybees and beekeeping equipment. You will learn a more sustainable, holistic approach on how the colony works as an organism, interacts with the environment, plants, flowers, and with us. Even if you may not want to be a beekeeper, come and learn how to appreciate pollinators, as well as how to go pesticide-free and improve the environment with beneficial forage plants.
